

50 INSIGHTS ON JESUS' PARABLE OF THE UNPROFITABLE SERVANT.

Matthew 25:14-30

©cedars

Steve Orji

- 1. You have no decision over the quantity of talents and gifts you received; you are ultimately responsible for the quality of their outcomes.
- 2. To become a pioneer in any field of endeavour requires inspired courage.
- 3. Loss of focus results from comparing what you have with other's.
- 4. To have the wisdom to create value with what you received is more important than to seek for more of what you already have.
- 5. Irrespective of one's race or location in life, everyone has equal access to the giver of Gifts and talents.

- 6. Every talent or gift has power to either promote or destroy the recipient depending on how it's put to use.
- 7. Excuses do not diminish the expected outcomes of whatever talent's or gifts we received.
- 8. Fear is the ultimate destroyer of talents and gifts.
- 9. Good leaders must provide latitude for their follower's creative expressions, but demands accountability.
- 10. Feeling cheated out of life is already a major obstacle to high performance.
- 11. The Habit of being accountable with everything is the secret of personal efficiency.
- 12. Accountability is a two-way trust relationship between a Manager and his workers.

- 13. Every Talent or Gift is capable of providing reward to the recipient and the giver of the gifts.
- 14. An ounce of attempt is better than a bold excuse.
- 15. Laziness results from spiritual blindness.
- 16. Creativity is the brainchild of vision.
- 17. New skills come about when one boldly takes on unfamiliar territories.
- 18. A good Manager can manage anything.
- 19. No perceived disadvantage is universal; it's only person-defined.
- 20. Fear of being criticised is often the reason people hide their talents.
- 21. Everyone has received a special ability.

- 22. Trust is the driving force behind the giver giving out talents.
- 23. One can reciprocate the trust of custodianship by trading with one's talent.
- 24. Operating a gift or a talent does not require experience, only boldness.
- 25. Often times the act of stepping out of one's comfort zone ushers the wisdom to tackle the unknown.
- 26. A Manager must learn to avoid committing important tasks to a disgruntled team member.
- 27. Great performers are often people who can work with little or no supervision.

- 28. Doing what you love without expecting a reward initially will ultimately prove rewarding.
- 29. You cannot grow beyond the value you attach to what you have received.
- 30. The instructions for operating any gift are already resident in the gift.
- 31. The yield of any talent is proportional to the operative-vision.
- 32. A person who has no vision will achieve minimal results irrespective of the quantity of time at his disposal.
- 33. Sense of accountability generates passion.
- 34. Lack of enthusiasm is sign of inner discontent.

- 35. What to do with one's time is a personal choice.
- 36. The sign of progress in any undertaking is measurable growth.
- 37. An excuse is a cover up for a pre-conceived weakness.
- 38. People who fail are often preoccupied with self-bound excuses.
- 39. A person who ignores little opportunities will miss the grand chance.
- 40. An unwilling mind will not attract significant opportunities.
- 41. Attitude is more important than talent.
- 42. Felling of Insecurity is more of outlook than of what we lack.
- 43. Building personal capacity is the foundation for greater productivity.

- 44. Creativity is the “trick” for generating more profits.
- 45. You may never meet the performance expectations of your Manager if you are biased towards him.
- 46. Misjudging the intentions of people you are accountable to will negatively affect your personal momentum.
- 47. Vision of what to do with what you have, per time, have a multiplier effect.
- 48. Poverty is a consequence of doing nothing or the wrong thing.
- 49. Wealth is a consequence of doing something right.
- 50. Things ultimately will respond to the level of one’s inner passion.